The chair of Landscape Architecture of the TU Delft cordially invites you for the opening of the exhibition ‘Homo Ludens’ on Tuesday, January 5, 2016.

A good environment invites you to play. In the presented projects, play - in the broadest sense of the word - adds value to the public space and to different societal aspects. And vice versa. What is the role of spatial design and how can architects, landscape architects and urban designers contribute to a playful environment?

Room P

16:00 introduction (Saskia de Wit)
16:15 lecture ‘the playful city’ (Machiel van Dorst)
16:45 presentation ‘Stationsplein’ (Marie-Laure Hoedemakers)

BK expo

17:00 opening & drinks

The exhibition was created by NVTL (Dutch Association for Garden and Landscape Architecture), in collaboration with the professional journal ‘tuin & landschap’. It can be visited from 5 - 15 January 2016.

The exhibition space (BK Expo) is situated in the east wing of the Faculty of Architecture, TU Delft, Julianalaan 304, Delft.